On Friday September 24th, the FBI raided eight homes and offices of anti-war and social justice activists in Chicago and Minneapolis. The FBI agents seized books, music CD's, photographs, computers, cell phones, check books, papers, cameras and every other items that could contain information and saved data. This undemocratic and suppressive action against antiwar and peace activists has been denounced and condemned by numerous antiwar and social justice organizations. In a response to an emergency call to action by groups in Chicago and Minneapolis, in the last few days thousands of people in 20 cities in the US have mobilized on the streets against these attacks in front of Federal Buildings and FBI offices, and actions in over 33 cities are being organized since the FBI raids.
